Today we will...

WE ARE LEARNING TO

- Identify subjective, objective, and possessive pronouns in sentences.
- Choose the correct case when we write and speak.

SUCCESS LOOKS LIKE

✓ I can tell if a pronoun is a subject, object, or owner.

✓ I can fix a sentence that uses the wrong pronoun case.

Subject Doers vs Object Receivers

Subjective: Does Action

- I, you, he, she, it, we, they
- She ran fast to the bus stop
- They built the model together

Objective: Receives Action

- me, you, him, her, it, us, them
- The teacher helped me after class
- Pass the ball to them quickly

DID YOU KNOW?

The word pronoun means 'in place of a noun.'

It comes from Latin pronomen, and we still use pronouns to avoid repeating nouns.

Which Fix Helps Most?

Which trick will you use most to get case right?

A Ask: who is doing the action?

B Try the pronoun alone without 'and'

C Ask: does it show ownership?

Vote with your hands, then explain why.
